TOP THREE KISSING SECRETS ONLY LESBIANS

KNOW

S.Tylene provides insight on the Top 3 kissing secrets shared by 'girls who kiss girls'

On a scale of one to ten answer me this: How horny can the right kind of kissing make you? If you're in the right mind set, if you're pushing to make the next move, can kissing be the one thing that provokes you and your body to want more? Or can kissing be the one thing that makes you completely turned off and not interested? Sure, everyone has their own tips and tricks to be the best at kissing, but I'm going to let you in on some little secrets about kissing that only lesbians would know.

Lesbians are known for being good with their tongue; after all, we specialize in a technique called the art of going down on other women. The general definition of what most people find lesbian sex to be is either fingering or going down on each other (which I can assure you there is much more to it), but in the case of our tongues being used, we strive to perfect the kiss before our tongue reaches the second set of lips.

Secret No. 1: Don't be in such a rush to get through the bases of kissing. Kissing sets up the mood for how you're going to fulfill the rest of your desires. Get to know the taste of the other person's mouth as you trace their lips and tongue with yours. Give yourself and the other person the time to really flatter one another and work each other up in the process. Since you're taking your time - time is clearly in your favor.

Secret No. 2: Tease a little bit. You're not in a rush, you're getting to know what drives the other person wild, so in that case don't be narrow or boring about it. How can you ever know what feels right or wrong if all you do is stick to the pace of one technique? Go slow, speed it up. Wrestle tongues, bite a little, be aware that everyone likes things a different way. The art of kissing is compatibility, but how can you ever be sure you're fully compatible if all you do is settle for one way of doing things? And with that, of course...

Secret No. 3: Talk about kissing. Talk about the things you like and the things you don't like. Mention whether certain kissing techniques are more inclined to work you up or turn you off. Kissing is a big deal, it's intimate, and for most people (especially females) it's the only way you're bound to get to second base, let alone a second date.

Not only do you want to talk about it and ask questions for your own sake, but be sure to give reassurance for the sake of others. Everyone does their best when they know they're inclined to do good. Let someone know how turned on you're getting, how heated you are for wanting more of them. Let your hands wander over the body of the person you're kissing, get to know them in more than one way at once. Follow these three simple secrets for kissing, and I can guarantee that second base will co-align with a second date.
